Introduction<sup>1</sup>

A full introduction will be added at a later date. A few brief remarks about Arundell's appointment and his register now follow.

Redmayne was provided to Ely by Pope Alexander VI on 26 May 1501 but he remained personally active at Exeter until the early summer.<sup>2</sup> In July Archbishop Henry Deane appointed Hugh Oldham and Richard More to act as his commissaries during the vacancy of the see and in the autumn they mounted a visitation of the diocese.<sup>3</sup> A partial record of this survives which is calendared below.<sup>4</sup> The sede vacante period came to an end on 29 June 1502 by which time Arundell had taken charge of his diocese.

The new bishop was a native of Cornwall. His father was Sir Remfrey Arundell, the head of a junior branch of the Arundell family of Lanherne.<sup>5</sup> John was probably born in the later 1430s and attended Oxford University where he studied theology. His ecclesiastical career began in 1459 and gathered momentum under the Yorkists. He was successively treasurer and chancellor of Hereford Cathedral and held prebends at Wells and York Cathedrals and St George's Chapel Windsor.<sup>6</sup> In 1482 he was elected dean of Exeter following Lionel Woodville's promotion to the see of Salisbury.<sup>7</sup> An acolyte of Peter Courtenay then bishop of Exeter, Arundell was involved in the duke of Buckingham's rebellion against Richard III in the following year. Whilst Courtenay fled abroad and was attainted for treason, Arundell made his peace with the king and received a royal pardon.<sup>8</sup> Evidently his involvement was of a lesser scale than that of his episcopal superior.

Arundell was cautiously introduced into public life by Henry VII being appointed a commissioner for Calais in 1485, an envoy to Burgundy in 1488 and chancellor to Prince Arthur by 1493. Three years later in August 1496, when he was probably nearing 60, he was rewarded with the bishopric of Coventry & Lichfield, a large see situated in the heartlands of the kingdom. Arundell was a successful diocesan at Coventry. He appointed capable men to positions of authority within his administration – Oldham and John Veysey especially – whom he then brought to the south-west when he was translated to Exeter on 8 April 1502. The temporalities of his new see were formally granted to him on 5 July<sup>9</sup> and he began his register on 17 July.

Arundell's rule at Exeter was disappointingly short. His death in London on 15 March 1504 obliges us to suspend judgement on his episcopate.<sup>10</sup> His register, a mere 14 folios, is a rather tawdry affair. Much is made of Arundell's appointment of John Sixtinus, a Netherlander and friend of Erasmus, as his registrar.<sup>11</sup> But this seems to have added to the problems because Sixtinus had no practical knowledge of church government and had to rely on the help of his predecessor, John Scoos<sup>12</sup>, who cannot have been happy to have been displaced by an inexperienced foreigner. The runt of the pack, the register book was initially kept separately in the bishop's registry until it was united with the other late fifteenth century registers to form what is now the second part of Chanter 12.<sup>13</sup>

<sup>14</sup> Prerogative Court of Canterbury will register Blamyr contains two quires or 16 folios of Henry Deane's missing archiepiscopal register (Smith, Guide, p. 16). These are briefly calendared in Smith, Index of Wills, i. xv-xix.

<sup>22</sup> William Glovyer probably resigned St Mewan for Thorverton at this time and was probably succeeded by Richard Smyth who first occ in Mar 1512 when he was dispensed to be non-resident because he could not speak the Cornish language and the nearness of the sea made him feel ill (see Redmayne 164; CPL, xix. pp. 354-55; see Veysey 175).

<sup>23</sup> William Glovyer probably succeeded Simon White (see King 3 and previous note); Glovyer first occ as vicar in Feb 1506 (see Oldham 856); he was probably adm in or shortly after Sep 1501 when a meeting of the Exeter Dean & Chapter was convened to choose a new incumbent (ECA D&C.1882); he resigned Thorverton for another chapter living, Colyton, in 1508 (see Oldham 227-28 and 234).

<sup>29</sup> Stephen Whytrow probably succeeded William Davy (see Redmayne 198); Whytrow was dispensed for non-residence and pluralism in Nov 1502 (CPL, xvii pt1, pp. 535-36) which perhaps explains why he was (again) adm to Worlington in Dec 1502 (see 54); presumably the admission sede vacante was invalid because Whytrow was then an unlicensed pluralist having become chantrist at St Mary's Reading in Oct 1502 (BRUO, iii. 2039); see Oldham 221.

<sup>31</sup> Robert Body may have succeeded Thomas Jamys who was adm in 1500 (see Redmayne 136); Body occ as vicar in Dec 1522 (see CTRs Part 4); see Veysey 693.

<sup>35</sup> John Nans probably succeeded John Fulford who resigned East Budleigh in or before 1504 (see Redmayne 1 and 100 and Oldham 33).

<sup>36</sup> Stephen Tredenek who occ as vicar in 1505 was probably adm in succession to Sampson Bloyow (CRO, ARD2/67, fo 1v; see Neville 96 and Oldham 399); see CTRs Part 4 (Ashcombe).

- synodals and cathedratics<sup>43</sup>: archdeaconry of Barnstaple £9 14s; archdeaconry of Cornwall £9 4s 2½d; archdeaconry of Totnes £1 13s 4d (due to pay £8 6s 8d); also Exeter Cathedral pays a certain sum annually according to the ordinances of Bp Stapeldon whilst no synodals or cathedratics are paid by the archdeaconry of Exeter
- vacancies of churches<sup>44</sup>: Clovelly 6s 7½d<sup>45</sup>; Bradford 3s 6½d<sup>46</sup>; Farringdon £1 13s 8d<sup>47</sup>; Drewsteignton 19s<sup>48</sup>
- non-residence<sup>49</sup>: Roborough<sup>50</sup>, Dolton<sup>51</sup>, Cheldon<sup>52</sup>, Woolfardisworthy<sup>53</sup>, Oakford<sup>54</sup>, Parkham<sup>55</sup>, Hollacombe<sup>56</sup>, Charleton<sup>57</sup>, Thurlestone<sup>58</sup>, Woodleigh<sup>59</sup>,

<sup>37</sup> Either Trehaverock or Bodmin prebend; Peter Tregoos occ as prebendary of Trehaverock in May 1492/Jan 1493 and William Cavell in 1522 (see Neville 235) whilst Richard Milonek occ as prebendary of Bodmin in May 1492/Jan 1493 and John Baby in 1522 (see Bothe 196); see also Neville 46.

<sup>42</sup> John Hayle or Hayly who occ as rector in May/Aug 1504 very likely succeeded Roger Hord (LPL, CM.XVIII/13; see Redmayne 26); see Veysey 26.

<sup>44</sup> The income of vacant benefices was customarily payable to the bishop; this was changed at the Reformation by 28 Henry VIII c11 which directed that the next incumbent should receive the money.

<sup>48</sup> Perhaps caused by the death or resignation of Thomas Amadas (see Bothe 157); M John Stephens who occ as rector in Easter term 1535 and who was a prebendary of Exeter Cathedral may have been his successor but this is unlikely given that he was not ordained priest until 1513 (VE, ii. p. 321; BRUO 2, p. 540); see Alley 26.

<sup>51</sup> M Robert Aldesford or Alford was rector (see King 147); he was admonished to reside by Bishop Oldham in 1506 (see Oldham 854); not in Emden.

<sup>58</sup> M William Ayssheford was rector; he was adm in 1448 (Lacy, i. 333); see 69; not in Emden but possibly a relative of William Ashford vicar of Banstead (Surrey) and who died in or before 1477 (BRUO, i. p. 57).

<sup>77</sup> Rural deans were chosen annually from amongst the parish clergy and performed overseeing and other administrative tasks for the bishop and archdeacons; in recognition of their work they were exempted from paying procurations, synodals and cathedratics; many of the rural deans listed in the notes below were graduates, pluralists or senior clergy and it is unlikely that they themselves performed the duties of the office; in later times apparitors did their work and this may also have been the case here.

The bishop was probably the newly-elected Arundell and Sydnor was most likely his receiver-general (see Redmayne, p. 3).

110. This is a Latin prologue and eulogy by John Sixtinus<sup>356</sup> who has been appointed registrar by Arundell. He praises the bishop for reflecting honour on his ancient and illustrious pedigree through his learning and virtues.<sup>357</sup> Every day Arundell's household assemble together in the palace chapel where services are conducted with vocal and instrumental music. The bishop maintains hospitality and makes a daily distribution of alms at the gate of his palace. Arundell readily rewards merit among his chaplains. Sixtinus also explains the circumstances of his appointment as registrar. The recent practice of combining the registrarships of the bishop's audience and consistory courts has proved unsuccessful.<sup>358</sup> There is too much work for one man to do and standards have fallen to the detriment of the bishop's subjects. Arundell has therefore asked Sixtinus to take over the audience court registrarship.<sup>359</sup>

<sup>357</sup> Arundell was the third son of Sir Rainford Arundell of Lanherne in Cornwall (Oliver, Lives of Bishops, p. 116); Sixtinus makes frequent allusions to classical Latin authors.

<sup>358</sup> It was customary for the two registrarships to be held separately but under Redmayne John Scoos gained possession of both offices (see Redmayne 7).

<sup>359</sup> After Sixtinus' arrival Scoos continued as consistory court registrar and probably recovered the audience court registrarship in the 1510s (see Redmayne 7). Sixtinus' appointment may have been educational as he cannot have been particularly experienced at this stage of his career and certainly would not have been familiar with the workings of episcopal government in England; Scoos may have acted as a mentor (see 128); the heading which precedes the prologue, the prologue itself and entries 111-18 are probably in Sixtinus's own hand. Scoos' combining of the two registrarships served as an unwelcome precedent for Redmayne's successors in the sixteenth century (see Veysey ).
