Register of Orders 1571-1667

Introduction

This is another in the series of slimline register books that John Germyn and his brother Thomas introduced during their time as principal registrars in the third quarter of the sixteenth century.¹ It measures 11½" x 8¼" and contains 104 folios set in a leather binding.² The folios are parchment with the exception of the final six which are paper. These are the working copies of ordination ceremonies held mainly during the last five years of Joseph Hall's episcopate (1627-41). They have been bound into the register in more recent times.³ There is no foliation.

The volume was originally intended to serve as Bishop William Bradbridge's common register but this idea was quickly abandoned and instead the book became an ordinations register containing not only the fair-copies of the ceremonies that Bradbridge held but also those of his post-Reformation and Restoration successors.⁴ Six further volumes continue the sequence of ordinations into later centuries. The books were once known as registers A to G but Prebendary Chanter replaced the letters with numbers when he re-catalogued the diocesan archives in the 1920s.⁵ Our register is 50 or Chanter 50.

Bishop Hall's inventory of episcopal muniments of 1641 does not mention Chanter 50.⁶ This is probably because the work of copying had temporarily stopped. Bishop Valentine Carey (1621-26) held his ordination ceremonies once a year in September. The ceremony for September 1625, the last of his episcopate, is missing. In its place is one for 1645 which belongs to Bishop Ralph Brownrigg's episcopate (1642-59). Immediately afterwards Hall's ceremonies begin. As the handwriting for Carey, Hall and Brownrigg's ordinations is very similar it seems likely that the ceremonies for the first half of Hall's episcopate were not fair-copied until after 1645. A further hiatus may then have occurred resulting in the

² Smith, Guide, p. 88. A Tudor rose with Elizabeth written across it is stamped on the back cover. Smith counts 103 folios.

⁴ Bradbridge's main register (DHC, Chanter 20) also begins as a common register (see Introduction).

⁵ HMC, iv. 15. The letters probably date from the 18th or early 19th centuries and are pasted on the front covers whilst the numbers are stamped on the spines.

ordinations for the post-Restoration period being entered in the space intended for the remainder of Hall's ordinations.⁷

Readers will note the greater frequency of ordination ceremonies in the later sixteenth century compared to earlier times.⁸ Under Bradbridge and John Woolton men were ordained almost every other day. This was because there were fewer candidates presenting themselves and so a casual or piecemeal approach could be taken. Often only one or two men might be ordained at a ceremony. There were only two grades or orders in the post-Reformation church: deacon and priest. This, too, would have had an impact on the holding of ceremonies.

Post-Reformation bishops did the job of ordaining themselves: there is no mention of suffragans. Bradbridge obliged candidates to come to him at his country livings⁹, a practice that William Cotton continued in the early seventeenth century¹⁰. Woolton, by contrast, preferred the episcopal palace at Exeter.¹¹ The public spectacle of ordination only resumed under Carey and Hall when the cathedral once again became the place for conferring orders as it had been in earlier centuries. By this time more men were seeking orders and it was possible to hold fewer, more regular, ceremonies in which larger groups of ordinands were processed.¹² These were predominantly university graduates. During Cotton's episcopate the scribes added useful biographical details about them including the colleges they attended, their ages and places of birth and residence.

For ease of reference I have added a foliation to my calendar. Until Carey's episcopate scribes often entered candidates' names laterally across the page with priests coming before deacons. I have ignored this and listed ordinands vertically with deacons preceding priests to make the calendar fit with the pre-Reformation registers.

References	Bishop	Episcopate	Ordinations
1-435	William Bradbridge	1571-78	1571-78
436-773	John Woolton	1579-94	1579-94
774-817	Gervase Babington	1595-98	1595-98

⁷ This would explain why the working copies have survived. The handwriting of the post-Restoration ordinations is late seventeenth century.

⁸ See Neville, p. 35.

⁹ Lezant and Newton Ferrers. Archbishop Parker had dispensed Bradbridge to hold two livings in commendam to supplement his income as bishop following the sale and leasing out of the episcopal manors in the 1540s (Reg Parker, iii. 1024).

¹⁰ Silverton.

¹¹ He probably used the palace chapel (Lega-Weekes, Some Studies, p. 91).

¹² This was probably in response to the 1604 canons and the growing emphasis on ceremonial in the post-Reformation church.

628. Woolton announces that he has arranged for the preparation of two new books of sufficient size in his registry to accommodate the subscriptions of newly ordained clergy to the articles of the Synod of London of 1563 and the three articles that Archbishop Whitgift had recently introduced.³⁹ Woolton admits that the existing record of subscriptions to the 1563 articles has not been well kept and that the subscription book is in poor condition.

1009. Sun 21 Sep 1623: Holy orders celebrated by Carey in choir of cathedral after a sermon by Mr John Sprott subdean and canon residentiary in the nave¹⁴¹

¹⁴¹ Ordinands subscribed the three articles of religion in the hall of the bishop's palace beforehand and then shortly before the ceremony swore the oath of supremacy in the hall. Sprott, a prebendary of Exeter Cathedral (1599-1632d), became subdean in 1603 (Fasti 3, pp. 37, 56).
